Why should my child study music?

"Because music trains the brain for higher forms of thinking."

- A child who learns to play an instrument learns discipline, cooperation with others and betters a child's general education.
- Learning an instrument at a young age also helps organize the brain for a better aptitude in math, science and spatial acuity.
- Research tells us, children who play music do better in school and in life.
- Playing music builds motivation and self-esteem.
- Music lessons boost thinking skills.
- School music fosters well-being.
- Learning music builds skills for the future.
- Music education helps young people feel inspired and motivated.
